COPPERS ARE SEWED UP HERE

Not the Police, But the Pennies — Banks Feel the Dearth

CHURCH IS RESPONSIBLE

Band of Workers of First Presbyterian Church Corner the Market

While all of this agitation in going the rounds of the American press regarding Gaudens, the famous sculptor, using an Irish girl (found in an obscure New England town, waiting table) for the model to make a design for the new Indian head on the American penny, Rushville too, is having her "copper troubles."

Maybe you have not had occasion to know, but there is a dearth of pennies in this city. Never since the good old penny-in-the-slot days has the market on pennies been so congested. Fortunately it is the only financial depression we have felt here.

You surely have noticed the large number of new bright coppers, fresh from the mints, that are in circulation here.

Well, there is a reason, and it is found that it can all be laid at the door of a church and the traction company.

The Band of Workers of the First Presbyterian church are creating a fund with a plan called "a yard of pennies." The members gather pennies from all sources and sew them into a piece of cloth. The pennies will measure up about fifty cents to the yard, some of the members have already as high as seven and eight yards, or three dollars and fifty cents. In this way, they have virtually cornered and "sewed-up" the surplus penny market.

Then again, since the new rates went into effect on the traction line, it necessitates the using of many pennies by the conductors on the I. & C. line, all of which comes out of the general offices here.

When the Band of Workers "cash in" there is going to be a flood of coppers that even Wall street will probably feel, and Tom Lawson will at least hear about.

The Aged Man Had Been Drinking Heavily During the Afternoon—Has Divorced Wife and One Daughter Living in This City

Samuel English, aged 67 years, an old veteran of the Civil war, and an inmate of the Marion Soldiers' Home, was struck by the north bound Big Four passenger train, due here at 5:44 Tuesday evening, and died a few hours later from the injuries, the right leg being cut off between the ankle and the knee.

It is said that the unfortunate man came to this city Monday to visit relatives, and he had been drinking Tuesday and was in an intoxicating condition when he was run down by the train.

He had started to the Big Four passenger station to return on the evening train to Marion, and his condition was such that he had fallen on the pavement on West First street, near Pearl. Charlie Palmer, the busman, found him there and helped him into the station.

While waiting for the train, the old man walked down the platform to the south end of the depot and in some manner had gotten out on the track just as the train was arriving.

The engineer said that he saw the old man by the light in front of the engine and immediately reversed the

PHYSICIANS MEET AND STUDY

Local Doctors are Taking Post Study Course in Their Work

MEET EVERY FORTNIGHT NEW DEPOSITORY LAW

And Carry Out a Program After the Order of Farmers Institute Work

The physicians of Rushville met in regular session last night to carry on a work recently established here, and a plan that is an innovation throughout the country.

The doctors of medicine meet every fortnight when a paper on some disease or work in their profession is read, and a general discussion of the paper follows. The mode of procedure is much after the order of the study of agriculture in the farmers institutes.

It might be classed as a post study course in medicine. The general scheme or plan is outlined by a physician in Bowling Green, Ky., and the physicians of the foremost counties in the United States have taken it up and find it an interesting, highly instructive and profitable study work.

All the members of the county medical society are entitled to membership in the new club.

The Rush county physicians are a progressive set of professional men, and are to be commended for the interest they always take in matters pertinent to their business.

HOPEFUL WORDS FROM CARNEGIE

Committee Receives Encouraging Letter From Wealthy Philanthropist Today

The members of the Wednesday Evening club are elated today and the community can well join in with them for there is cause for rejoicing. Today the committee composed of Judge Sparks, E. B. Thomas and John A. Titworth, received a communication from Andrew Carnegie, the philanthropist, regarding the erection of a free library in Rushville.

The letter was of a most hopeful nature, and from the tone of it, the committee is of the opinion that steps will soon be taken which will lead to establishing a public library here, and Mr. Carnegie will be the principal benefactor.

Department Commander Ketchum, of the Indiana G. A. R., delivered an eloquent address before the members of the local G. A. R., W. R. C. and old veterans and their wives at the court house this afternoon in which he urged the old "boys in blue" to make a special effort for an increase in membership in the local organization.

The new depository law will go into effect next Monday, and it will mark several changes in the banking business of this city.

The Farmers bank will become a public depository, and in the future will be subject to investigation by the State bank examiners the same as the National banks.

Under the new law the county treasurer is obliged to deposit the receipts of the office in the bank, where at least two per cent is paid on deposits. The city and township funds are also included in this new feature of interest paying deposits.

The county treasurer must make daily deposits, but once the money is out of his hands the bank becomes responsible; the funds are protected by increased bonds filed with the State Auditor.

Heretofore the banks of Rushville have never paid interest on deposits in any manner, and it will be an innovation with them. Some of the bankers are complaining, saying that they cannot realize much on such deposits, but they will pay the interest rather than have the money deposited elsewhere.

MORMONS ARE MAKING HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVAS

Promulgating Doctrines of Their Sect—Ten Coming to This City

Nathaniel Craw'ord, of Utah and Joseph Alston, of Canada, the two Mormon elders, who arrived in this city Monday, are making a house to house canvas promulgating the doctrines of their sect, which maintains that all other religion is wrong and that no other preachers have authority to proclaim the gospel save theirs. There will be ten of the elders here Saturday to hold a conference in this city.

NO SLUSH IN SCHOOLS HERE

Supt. Headlee Opposed to Teaching "Courtship and Marriage" to Pupils

FAVORS BROAD TRUTHS

Of the Relation of Husband and Wife, But as to "Scientific Love," Never—

On a letter of inquiry from the editor of the Indianapolis Star to Supt. W. O. Headlee, of this city, as to his position on the suggestion of teaching courtship and marriage in the common schools, Mr. Headlee replied as follows:

"I have your letter asking for my opinion on Supt. Blair's recommendation that the subject of 'Courtship and Marriage' be taught in the public schools.

"I may be if I understand exactly what the superintendent means. I should agree with him, but with my present interpretation of his views on the whole, I think I should disagree.

"If he has reference to the teaching of such broad general truths as 'The relation of husband to wife and wife to husband,' 'The rights of children,' 'The ideal home life,' etc., most people would agree that these should be taught incidentally; but to set apart a portion of time for the regular teaching of these things together with 'scientific' courtship would certainly be most inadvisable. In the first place the subject is not sufficiently organized into a science to be taught effectively.

"There are no specific rules or methods of procedure to guide one in the matter of courtship and there should not be. It is the lack of plan, the unreasoning adventure and consequent bewilderment, frequent surprises and unforeseen results that gives courtship most of its charm. Lovers will see to it that the subject is never reduced to plans of a science, however much we would teach them to be sensible."

"In the second place I doubt if it is wise to agitate this subject very much in the schools—in fact, it would seem wiser to keep it in the back ground. Some teachers have found it a pretty live question to deal with, as it is; and who can tell what might result from such constant suggestion as the teaching of the subject would imply.

"In the third place the subject is too delicate a one for the average teacher to approach without considerable embarrassment; so the subject at best would be poorly taught.

"Finally, specific rules and theories about married life will not regulate people's conduct altogether. Give them the right kind of hearts and healthy minds and they will not marry for wealth, husbands will treat their wives properly and wives will do as they should; both will understand their duty to their children and the home will be secure."

Respectfully,
W. O. HEADLEE

ALL IN READINESS FOR BIG BATTLE

Local Boys are in Trim For Gridiron Contest With Quaker Lads

Now for the big foot ball game Thanksgiving day—Rushville vs. Richmond. All lovers of the sport seem to be "all het up," over this game which promises to be the best of the year. Coach Abernathy was behind locked doors with his squad taking them through a strenuous signal practice. He says his men are in the pink of condition, and down to weight. There will be no more field work before the big game, as he does not care to take any chances of having any of his men injured.

Captain Sparks says, "My men are trained to the minute and should win pulling up." Ralph Stiffler, former star center will handle the indicator, and penalize the off side plays.

SAFER CROSSINGS

This Is What Is Contemplated
In Order of Railroad Commission.

DUTY OF CITY COUNCILS

Imperative Duty of Cities and Towns to Control Trains Within the Corporate Limits.

Commission Intimates That New Laws
on the Subject May Be Sought In Next Legislature.

Indianapolis, Nov. 27.—In an opinion given by the Indiana railroad commission following the inquiry as to whether engineers or motormen are required to stop their trains or cars at the crossings of interurban or street railroads within cities and towns, the commission holds that it is the imperative duty of the city and town councils that have personal every-day experience and information of the movement of trains in their community to supervise and control the operation of trains within their corporate limits. It is cited that this power is given to the municipal governments in the cities and towns act of 1905.

It is pointed out in the opinion that the railroad commission, on the application of any railroad company or on its own motion, may order the use of safety devices at crossings, but that the commission may not do this on its own motion inside the corporate limits of cities and towns without the consent and approval of the local authorities. The council, and not the commission, it is stated, shall control the operation of trains and cars within the cities and towns.

In the opinion it is intimated by the commission that certain recommendations may be made to the next legislature in regard to the control of trains and cars in cities and towns. This section of the opinion is as follows:

"What we do determine here is that for the reasons given and until the next meeting of the general assembly, when this entire subject-matter may be made clearer by our recommendations and their enactment, if the general assembly shall so will, we shall not hold ourselves bound to apply the criminal statute to the crossing by steam railroads of interurban railroads in the cities and towns and to report for prosecution every violation of its mandate, as we shall unquestionably do when crossings are run outside of the cities and towns."

LABORERS RETALIATE

Shorten Their Shovels to Equal a Wage Reduction.

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 27.—One hundred foreign laborers who use the pick and shovel at the Hoosier quarries, had their wages cut from 15 to 12½ cents an hour. The indignant men marched to the machine shops and had 2½ inches cut from their shovels, to meet the corresponding reduction in the wage scale, with the remark, "Short money, short shovels." Whether the officials appreciate the point is not known, but the men are using the abbreviated shovels in the conviction that they have adjusted matters to their own viewpoint of principle. The result is one of the most peculiar labor situations ever known in this district.

Postmaster Pleads Guilty.

Indianapolis, Nov. 27.—George E. Manuel, charged with irregularity in his accounts as postmaster at Cedar Lake, Ind., entered a plea of guilty before Judge K. M. Landis in federal court, but judgment was suspended until the May term of court. Mr. Manuel explained that he had been engaged in business at Cedar Lake in addition to being postmaster and that he had kept the money from the post-office and from his private business in one account in the bank. He unintentionally overdrawn the account and his troubles followed. Since then the discrepancy in his accounts has been adjusted.

Enlarging Revenue Payments.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 27.—The distilleries have received larger supplies of cash and are increasing their withdrawals of spirits for shipments to customers in the East. The daily payments at the internal revenue office are running above $50,000, and the expectation is to get them above $100,000 soon.

On the Missing List.

Brownsville, Ind., Nov. 27.—John Halsey, farmer, left home two weeks ago, telling no one of his destination, and he has since been on the missing list. There is fear of foul play, or else that he has committed suicide. He was fifty-five years old and a member of the I. O. O. F.

Victim of Corn Shredder.

Elizabethtown, Ind., Nov. 27.—Albert Stansfield, forty years old, near Scipio, Jennings county, had his left arm torn off at the shoulder while operating a corn shredder.

Women Burned to Death.

Perry, Ind., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Melvin Hight was burned to death, her clothes catching fire from the kitchen stove. She was forty years old, and the mother of eight children.

Dinan Down and Out.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—His sixty days' leave of absence having expired, former Chief of Police Dinan reported for duty yesterday to Chief Bigg. He was notified that he had been reduced in rank from sergeant to corporal and was then suspended from the force until legal decisions on the charges of conspiracy and perjury pending against him have been rendered.

Met Death on the Track.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 26.—Adolph Gladstone, while returning from fishing in Wolf lake, picking his way along the railway tracks, was overtaken by a train and killed.

Three Persons Assassinated.

Clio, Ark., Nov. 27.—Three men were assassinated as they stepped from a train here last night. The assassin is unknown. The dead are: Thomas R. Godfrey, a Pine Bluff lumberman; Clarence L. Bush, a telegraph operator, and A. R. McEvain, a singing teacher from Grant county who was a bystander. No motive is known for the triple crime.

ON A CASH BASIS

New York Bankers Expecting Soon to Do Away With Check System.

RATES STEADILY DECLINING

Call Money Is Practically Going Begging on Wall Street at Three Per Cent and Below.

As Soon as the Time Loan Rate Gets Back to Six Per Cent Cash Payments Will Be Resumed.

New York, Nov. 27.—New York bankers are expecting a resumption of cash payments in lieu of the check system which has been employed during the present financial stringency in a very short time. The return to a strictly cash basis in banking transactions is largely dependent upon the loan rates on money. These rates are steadily declining and call money practically went begging in Wall street yesterday at 3 per cent and below. Rates on time loans are high, but are gradually being reduced. As soon as the time loan rate reaches per cent it is believed the bankers will feel assured enough of their position to resume cash payments. New circulation from the issue of the new 3 per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness will be available within a few days, and this will be an important factor in hastening the return to the usual banking conditions. The premium on currency was in evidence again yesterday, but the rates were nominal and the demand comparatively light. The early disappearance of all premiums is freely predicted. While it is declared that the New York banks are in a position to resume currency payments at once, many such predictions have been made within the last few days. They are said to be awaiting assurance from the interior that other cities there have been satisfactorily supplied. So long as the interior demands are heavy the New York banks are inclined to hold their currency in readiness for transfer and to ask the indulgence of their local patrons to the extent of accepting checks, which are being handled with comparatively little inconvenience.

COULDN'T STAND DISGRACE

New York Banker Released From Jail Cuts His Throat.

New York, Nov. 27.—Howard Maxwell, deposed president of the Borough bank of Brooklyn, who was under indictment for grand larceny and forgery and was Monday night released from jail on $50,000 bail, committed suicide yesterday afternoon. He cut his throat in the bathroom of his home in Brooklyn.

Maxwell was forty-nine years old and leaves a wife but no children. On Nov. 21 he was jointly indicted for grand larceny with former Cashier Arthur Campbell and Director William Gow of the Borough bank. There were other indictments against him involving forgery in a quarterly bank statement made to the state banking department. Following so soon upon the suicide of Charles T. Barney, resigned president of the Knickerbocker Trust company, this suicide caused a sensation.

More Bankers Indicted.

New York, Nov. 27.—John G. Jenkins, Jr., until recently president of the Jenkins Trust company of Brooklyn; Frank Jenkins, deposed head of the Williamsburg Trust company, and Fred Jenkins, formerly a director of the latter institution, were jointly indicted for forgery in the third degree. The indicted men are brothers. After entering pleas of not guilty they were released each under a bond of $10,000.

NO LONGER TENABLE

The Title of Autocrat Is Out of Date, Says the Duma.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 27.—The duma last night decreed that the title of autocrat which has been borne by the emperors of Russia for centuries, is no longer tenable within the Russian state and is incompatible with the regime inaugurated by the manifesto issued by Emperor Nicholas on Oct. 30, 1905. At the close of a great constitutional debate the Russian parliament by a vote of 112 to 246 rejected the word "autocrat" and then adopted a reply to the address from the throne unanimously amid scenes of intense excitement, prolonged cheers and the singing of the national anthem.

The result of the situation is regarded as a victory for the Constitutional Democrats.

Dead at 105.

Pittsburg, Nov. 27.—W. R. Chambers, perhaps the oldest resident of Pennsylvania, is dead at his home in Cecil. He was 105 years old and at the time of his death was in full possession of all his faculties. His death was due to the infirmities of old age. He was born at Derby, Ireland, and came to this country forty-nine years ago. In addition to leaving a sister in Ireland who is 103 years old, Mr. Chambers is survived by two sons and one daughter, each of whom is over seventy years old.

BRYAN AT WASHINGTON

His Presence Made the Occasion of a Three-Dollar Banquet.

Washington, Nov. 27.—William J. Bryan was last night tendered a banquet and reception by "The United Democracy of the District of Columbia." Five hundred Democrats partook of the $3 dinner and more than double that number participated in the reception. While the capacity of the Raleigh hotel banquet hall placed a coveted limit on the attendance, the "lid" was completely off as to enthusiasm, and the long speech of Mr. Bryan, like the half-dozen shorter ones in his praise which preceded it, afforded opportunity for repeated and continued demonstrations of political accord and personal regard for the guest of honor. Mr. Bryan utilized the occasion to set forth at length a closely reasoned analogy between the policies of President Roosevelt and those he believes should be adopted in the administration of the government. From this view point, Mr. Bryan's speech was regarded by the prominent Democrats who heard it as a decidedly important and timely party deliverance. Mr. Bryan's analysis of President Roosevelt's political views was unique. Four of the president's policies, he said, were Democratic, and four of them were un-Democratic, while there were four other Democratic principles which the president did not advocate. Railroad regulation, the enforcement of the laws against the trusts, an income tax and arbitration as the method of settling disputes between labor and capital were all advocated by the president, Mr. Bryan said, but had been advocated by the Democratic party long before the president took them up. As to none of them, he maintained, did the president have the support of Republican party leaders. The four Democratic doctrines the president will not endorse the speaker gave as tariff reform, the election of senators by direct vote, the promise of ultimate independence to the Filipinos and the restriction of the use of the injunction in labor disputes. The four un-Democratic doctrines which the president does not advocate Mr. Bryan named as being the national incorporation of railroads and other interstate commerce corporations, the right of the federal government to interfere by treaty with state rights, ship subsidies and asset currency. Added to this Mr. Bryan said the president has manifested a military spirit.

Mr. Bryan's nomination was predicted by each of the several speakers, and each time the prediction was repeated it brought forth instantaneous responses. Mr. Hagan of New York pictured Mr. Bryan as the idol of New York Democrats, and Representative Sulzer of that city added his testimony to the same effect. Representative James of Kentucky declared the nomination of the Nebraskan settled, and John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, gave his unqualified endorsement to the same effect.

Seeking Cannon's Defeat.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Copies of a proclamation addressed "to all organized labor" and designed to defeat the election of Joseph G. Cannon as speaker of the house of representatives in the sixtieth congress have been sent to trades unions in every section of the country. Mr. Cannon is charged with having voted or ruled against the interests of organized labor in the consideration of certain measures. The proclamation appeals to organized labor to strive for the defeat of Mr. Cannon as speaker by requesting all central bodies and local unions to pass resolutions asking the representatives of their respective districts to vote against his re-election.

Gross Indignity to Churchman.

Rome, Nov. 27.—The Right Rev. Francis Aidan Gasque, the abbot president of the English Benedictines, who is here to undertake the revision of the Vulgate, was the object of an indignity, an outcropping of the anti-clerical sentiment. While walking in the street he encountered a group of roughs, who jostled him. At his remonstrance one of them spat in his face. The abbot controlled his anger and walked away.

Monthly Wage Law Knocked Out.

Indianapolis, Nov. 27.—The statute making corporations liable to a penalty and attorney fees for failing to pay wages at least once a month to employees doing certain kinds of work is unconstitutional, according to a decision of the supreme court. A judgment recovered by Charles J. Long against the Toledo, St. Louis & Western Railroad company, which included a penalty and attorney fee, as well as the wages due, was reversed. The statute applies only to "every company, corporation or association," and to their servants "engaged in manual and mechanical labor" for such concerns, and the court holds this to be class legislation. It says that an individual employing the same class of labor as the railroad company would not be within the terms of the act, and that such discrimination against classes of employers is not allowed.

Administered Severe Punishment.

Lalla Magnia, November 27.—The French column which was engaged in a serious fight with the tribesmen Sunday and Monday returned yesterday after administering severe punishment to the insurgents in the shape of a bombardment at several villages. The sudden outbreak of hostilities on the Algerian frontier is the result of long smoldering resentment of the local tribesmen against the French occupants of Oudja.

DETAILS OF WORK

What Has Been Accomplished by American Engineers In Panama.

A PLEA FOR HIRED LABOR

The Contract System Does Not Meet the Favor of the Commission In Charge of Monster Enterprise.

Statement as to Sanitary Conditions Shows That Yellow Fever Has Been Wiped Out.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Full details of the work done on the Panama canal during the fiscal year 1907 with a showing of what has been accomplished since the project has been in American hands, are disclosed in the annual report of the isthmian canal commission, just made public. It is the first report made of operations on the isthmus since construction work has been in charge of army engineers. Aside from the $50,000,000 paid to the French company and to Panama an aggregate of $48,285,110 has been expended by the government on the project adopted by congress and which it was estimated by the board of consulting engineers would ultimately cost $139,705,200. This estimate, however, did not include sanitation and expenses of the zone government, waterworks, sewers and paving in Panama and Colon and the re-equipment of the Panama railroad. There is no reference in the report to the proposition which has been brought forward to extend the width of the locks to 110 feet so as to accommodate without difficulty the extreme breadth in the development of shipbuilding, and this will be made the subject of a special communication from the commission. A strong position is taken favorable to a continuation of the policy of doing the work by hired instead of contract labor, and many arguments are presented to justify the commission in its conclusion that the canal can be built better, cheaper and more quickly by the government. Sanitation is treated of in the report, a statement being made of what has been done and the declaration that there was no yellow fever originating on the isthmus during the year.

As bearing on the question of the suitability of the foundations for the proposed lock sites the report quotes from the conclusions of a board of consulting engineers who made a personal examination of the material at the lock sites and which found that all of the locks of the dimensions then proposed (an 85-foot level canal) would rest on rock of such a character that would furnish a safe foundation.

Kurds Again Descend Upon Defenseless Armenians.

Smyrna, Nov. 27.—Sweeping the province of Diarbekr, Asia Minor, a force of Kurds and irregular Turkish troops, under Ibrahim Pasha, has plundered and burned 151 villages and massacred hundreds of Armenian Christians. Survivors of the slaughter have fled to the mountains, where those who are not hunted down by the soldiers must die of cold and exposure. Ibrahim was sent into Diarbekr to suppress trifling local disorders, but instead marched through the Walsh Scores Strong Point.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—An attempt on the part of the prosecution to force the presentation in court of the private books of John R. Walsh, on trial for alleged misapplication of the funds of the Chicago National bank, was frustrated by an adverse decision by Judge Anderson. The court held that an order requiring that the books be produced would amount to forcing the defendant to testify against himself.

THE BRADLEY TRIAL

Further Testimony Declaring the Defendant's Insanity.

Washington, Nov. 27.—In the trial of Mrs. Annie M. Bradley, charged with having killed former Senator Arthur M. Brown of Utah, in this city last December, Dr. Britton D. Evans of New York, the alienist, not only declared that Mrs. Bradley was insane when she shot Senator Brown, but entered with such vigor in defending his opinion and in denunciation of the conduct of the dead senator that Justice Stafford reminded the witness that the late Senator Brown was not on trial and not there to defend himself, and admonished him to refer to the dead man only when necessary to show the effect of his acts upon the mind of the defendant.

The appearance on the stand of Max Brown, son of the dead senator, who was called in rebuttal, was affecting in the extreme.

The young man, tall, slender and fragile of physique, tottered as he made his way to the witness stand. He carefully avoided looking toward the defendant who sat within ten feet of him. When he told of seeing his father and Mrs. Bradley in the kitchen of their home, with jars of fruit they had brought from the cellar at a time when his mother had been called away from the city to the bedside of her dying sister, the defendant laughed and lowered her head in confusion. But there was no sign of merriment on the face of the witness, who replied briefly to all questions put to him and lowered his eyes during intervals in the giving of his testimony.

Dr. Charles B. Hill, professor of nervous and mental diseases in the Baltimore Medical College, declared that in his opinion Mrs. Bradley was insane when she did the shooting. The criminal operations performed on her, the suffering, the disappointment and hereditary taint of insanity all combined to produce insanity in her. He thought she shot Senator Brown intentionally, but while believing that she was doing right in so doing.

A number of witnesses from Salt Lake, in addition to Max Brown, were introduced by the government in rebuttal, several of whom testified that Mrs. Bradley during their years of acquaintance with her, appeared at all times rational and affable. It was brought out that Senator Brown had made a proposition to Mrs. Bradley to accept a $5,000 house and $100 a month until her youngest child should be twenty-one years of age if she would leave Mr. Brown alone, but she indignantly declined the offer, saying that she wanted to marry Brown in order that her children by him might be given a name. The resting of the defense came in the nature of a surprise as it had been expected that the alienists would be kept on the stand for a much longer period.

Track Gamblers Gleeful.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 27.—A decision has been rendered by Circuit Judge George H. Williams that practically renders void the new anti-pool selling law enacted by the last legislature at Governor Folk's request, and opens up the way in St. Louis for a resumption of hand book bets on racing. In freeing Frank O'Haver, a barber, on the charge of pool-selling Judge Williams ruled that to prove the offense charged it must be shown that the race on which O'Haver placed a bet was actually run and that the horse on which the money was placed ran. For this proof the court holds that the form sheet or subsequent published account of the races cannot furnish convicting proof.

Entered Plea of Guilty.

Anniston, Ala., Nov. 26.—In the United States court, William R. Lawyer, late cashier of the defunct bank of Attalla, Ala., charged with embezzlement of the funds of that institution in conjunction with the former president, Lewis M. Dyke, now serving a term of five years, entered a plea of guilty. Sentence was deferred.

HARVESTING ROOTS.

Deductions From Experiments In Handling Such Crops.

The proper methods of harvesting and storing roots are obviously of the utmost importance in the use of such crops for winter feeding. The deductions from the New York Cornell station experiments which have to do with this subject follow:

Roots are generally harvested by hand except in the case of the sugar beets, when a plow may be used to raise them from the ground. When turnips, rutabagas and mangels are grown for succession feeding the turnips are generally harvested first, before frost. Slight frosts in the late fall will not injure rutabagas or mangels, although the first frost should be a sign of harvesting time unless it be exceptionally early and very sure to be followed by later warm weather. In late summer and early fall the tops do not grow much, yet the roots are developing and ripening rapidly.

In the case of mangels, rutabagas and most turnips the plants can be pulled by hand, the tops twisted off as they are pulled and the roots piled or thrown directly into the wagon. It is thought that piling and afterward loading are less fatiguing than throwing the roots directly into the wagon as pulled. The roots should reach their place of storage with as little dirt and bruising as possible.

Cellar Storage.

Roots may be stored in a cellar or in a pit in the field. The cellar is the better whenever practicable. It may be a part of the barn structure or built under the driveway of a bank barn, or it may be built as a dugout in a side hill near the barn. Perhaps concrete is the best material for construction. It should be not over seven or eight feet deep and large enough to hold the yield or supply. It is best to have it located and constructed in such a way that the roots can be dropped in from above, preferably through trapdoors in the bottom of the wagon and the roof of the cellar. It is essential that the walls (if built in the ground) and the floor have good drainage and that ventilation be provided through the top and that the construction be frostproof. The ventilators should be left open until sweating has ceased, when they may be closed for the winter. In winter the cellar should be kept closed as much as possible on warm days. Roots should be so placed that turnips may be fed first, rutabagas next and after these mangels and carrots.

A Jersey Trucking Center.

An important trucking district is that around Freehold, N. J. The land is light clay and not remarkably heavy, although holding enough clay to retain moisture fairly well in a dry season like the present. It is an important potato section, the land being adapted to the crop and mostly fairly level and easy to cultivate.

Potatoes are raised in good sized fields, the work being done mostly by machinery and horse or mule power. The conditions are somewhat like those in the potato region in northern Maine. The season is long, but more subject to severe drought and to attacks of disease and insects. Labor is fairly abundant and not of the best quality. Machinery is used to the fullest extent. A four horse potato digger is seen on almost all large fields, an implement which throws the crop out in very short order. Potatoes are picked up by children, who are paid 5 cents per barrel. The yield on commercial fields ranges from 100 barrels downward.

Other vegetables are raised extensively, including cucumber pickles, cantaloupes, asparagus, peppers and tomatoes. Fruit is a very important crop, some of the largest pear orchards in the country being found in this section. They are mostly of the Kieffer and similar varieties. Early apples and peaches are grown in moderate quantities. Concord grapes promise a good crop.

The section is situated within a comparatively few miles of New York, Philadelphia and other large cities, and the products quickly reach market at prices which this season afford a fair margin of profit to the growers—American Cultivator.

Milk Cars.

Market milk is the leading feature of New England dairying. Milk cars for Boston every morning leave northern New Hampshire, central Vermont, western Massachusetts and central Connecticut. Between thirty-five and forty carloads of milk arrive at Boston daily, almost all being of New England origin. The supply of milk for the smaller cities is also a business of large dimensions. The increasing use of cream makes that product of second importance. Maine sends a carload of cream to Boston daily, while large quantities are received from other sections along with the regular milk supply. Much of this market cream is separated by the farmers, gathered by creameries, where it is run through a separator for standardizing and then shipped to the city in bulk.—G. M. Whitaker.

Eating Moldy Corn.

Owing to the losses of live stock from eating moldy corn the scientists of the Iowa Agricultural college are making a study of molds in an endeavor to ascertain the poisonous mold, says Country Gentleman. A farmer near Dallas Center and another in Union county lost about $6,000 worth of stock recently through eating moldy corn. Professor Pammel of the college took up the investigation and so far has isolated four kinds of corn mold. If the poisonous germ can be isolated it is thought it will be the means of saving the live stock owners of the state large amounts of money annually.

ARABIA VERSUS KENTUCKY.

Blue Grass Thoroughbred to Race a Desert Steed.

Homer Davenport has purchased a brand new Arabian steed, Masoud, and the other day he signed with General John B. Castlemann of Louisville for an endurance contest with the latter's Carolina from the Pacific to the Atlantic, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York World.

Carolina is a fine specimen of the Kentucky saddler, noted for her stamens, and a majority of cavalry officers are said to believe that she will easily win. General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff, is particularly interested in the contest, and at his suggestion it is to be open to all comers.

This transcontinental go-as-you-please race is to be held next Spring. The start will be made from Portland, Ore., probably in March, and the Oregon trail, blazed and cleared by Lewis and Clark, is to be followed as closely as possible to St. Louis. At the latter city the riders will strike the old national road and will come over it into Washington.

A similar contest was arranged about a year ago, but the Arabian which Davenport had entered became ill and was withdrawn.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, NOVEMBER 27, 1907.

As usual, when the money question comes up for discussion, many persons permit themselves to become confused by mistaking the amount of currency in circulation for the amount in existence.

A man at Brazil drew several hundred dollars out of the bank, took it home and buried it and the hogs dug it up and made food of it. A man at Vincennes got frightened unnecessarily, drew his balance from the bank and was afterwards robbed of it. Numerous similar instances might be cited to show the folly of hoarding. The best place for money not needed immediately is in the banks.

The banks both East and West are planning to resume cash payments. The New York bankers expect to be ready to announce on Thanksgiving day unlimited payments on checks. That will be something all of us will be thankful for. As that day is a holiday and the banks not open for business it is supposed that the opening up will take place on the following day. Already the New York banks are lending money quite freely. As the difficulty began in New York it is quite proper it should end there.

Thanksgiving is as old as the ages, and is one of the noblest qualities enshrined in the human breast. Noah built an altar and thanked God for the preservation of himself and his family from the flood. And all through the history of our race we read of thanksgiving for victory in battle, for salvation from pestilence or famine or danger, for harvests and for peace.

It seems as though the universal heart recognizes inherently a great Giver of all good and naturally looks up to Him and give thanks.

But it is over our American thanksgiving in which we are most interested now—the thing which seems to sail down through the years, since the Pilgrims first gave thanks when, after their first harvest in 1631, Governor Bradford sent four men out fowling that they "might after a more special manner rejoice together." What a contrast between then and now, and how little it would seem they had to be thankful for compared with what we have, but they thanked God for it and for the hope of the future.

This great feast of Thanksgiving, so peculiarly American in its genius, was not made to order. It was a gradual growth. Not every year did the New England colonists observe it until 1800, and in the country at large it was only occasionally kept, and that for special causes, until President Lincoln established it as an annual feast.

Thanksgiving is peculiarly a home feast, a gathering of the families together again. Let America preserve her Thanksgiving Day for ever, a shrine before which the fires never go out. And as we gather around our own good table, let us remember some homeless or poor or unbefriended ones. It will brighten our own as well as their Thanksgiving.

News comes from Chicago that consumers in that city are promised sweeping reductions in the prices of meats and provisions within the next two weeks. This is a result of a general decline in prices of live stock. The prices of hogs have shown an average daily decline of 7 cents since October. Poultry of all kinds shows decline of 2 cents a pound over last week, while butter and cheese prices also shared the reduction.

The promise is made to Chicago housekeepers that by December 1st there will be noticeable reductions on the general cost of living and that the holiday marketing can be done cheaper this year than at any time since the middle of last year.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., November 27.—The appellate court has reversed the decision of Judge Buskirk of Paoli, who turned down the petition of the state for an order restraining the French Lick Springs and West Baden Hotel companies from permitting gambling on their premises and for the appointment of a receiver for them. During the crusade inaugurated against the companies a year and a half ago by Governor Hanly, it was charged that they had violated their charters by permitting gambling in buildings they owned. An attempt was made to have a receiver appointed on the ground that the companies contributed to the delinquency of children who were permitted to gamble at the casinos. It was also alleged that the companies were permitting a violation of the law. Judge Buskirk refused to appoint a receiver for the reason that the state had not given sufficient cause for such action against the companies. The cases have been pending on appeal for several months. It is not known whether or not they will be pushed further, as the gambling casinos have been closed permanently and the ground on which a petition for receiver was based has been removed. The appellate court holds, however, that the state has the right to go ahead with the action. Judge Roby wrote the opinion.

J. Kirby Risk of Lafayette and a few of his followers, at a conference at the Grand hotel here yesterday, formed an organization to be known as "The Bryan Volunteers." At this meeting it is said Chairman Taggart of the national committee came in for a large share of attention. The cry of nearly every speaker, it is said, was "down with Taggart and up with Bryan." "Down with Taggart" meant more literally, it is said, "Up with Risk," who, it is declared, is determined to succeed Taggart as the leader of the party in Indiana. "If we want to win in Indiana we must reorganize the state organization with Democrats who are in accord with the whole party," said Risk. "There are just as good Democrats as Taggart ever was that are tired of Taggart's domination in state affairs," he continued. Risk's followers cheered vociferously every time Taggart was hit. Risk issued a call for the meeting immediately after Bryan's recent visit at Lafayette, and his plan, it is said, is to organize clubs in every township in the state. The ostensible purpose is to boost Bryan for president, but it is rumored that the main reason for the formation of clubs is to bring about the defeat of Mr. Taggart for national committeeman and to prevent his friends gaining control of the state organization. Henry Warrum of Indianapolis was elected president of the organization; L. T. Kent of Brookston, first vice president; J. T. Lackey of Oxford, second vice president; O. S. Baird of Frankfort, secretary; F. W. McGaughey of Attica, treasurer; J. Kirby Risk, organizer. About dozen men, representing a half dozen counties in Risk's neighborhood, attended the meeting, but an effort will be made to extend the organization rapidly.

A meeting of Democrats from over the state will be held at John W. Kern's office Saturday for the purpose of raising a fund to start a Democratic daily paper in Indianapolis. Mr. Kern has put to rest all speculations as to whether or not he will be a candidate for Democratic national committeeman from Indiana to succeed Thomas Taggart. He will not be a candidate for the place. He doesn't care for it, and he would not be a candidate even if he did, if Taggart wanted it. Kern and his friends have been given to understand that Taggart desires the position again.

Major G. V. Menzies of Mt. Vernon, who has been spoken of lately as a probable candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, has made a statement that he will not make the race.

REVENGE.

REVENGE is a naked sword.
It has neither hilt nor guard.
Wouldst thou wield this brand of the

Is thy grasp then firm and hard?

BUT the closer thy clutch of the blade,
The deadlier blow thou wouldest deal,
Deeper wound in thy hand is made—
It is thy blood reddens the steel.

When the blade from thy hand has flown,
Instead of the heart of the foe,

CURRENT COMMENT

Marriage Discord.

It seems to be taken for granted in most current discussions upon the marriage problem that a union which does not turn out just as the parties expect is a failure. Seldom is account taken of the probability of new ideals forming under the marriage bond or of the heroic acceptance of the duties which the new relation involves. In a recent discussion in the Atlantic Monthly a writer takes the ground that marriages go to pieces because of innate selfishness. Whereas a man's egotism, says this writer, finds a healthy outlet in work, woman has no imperative duties, and her energies turn back upon her and devour her.

Writing in the London Fortnightly Review, Constance Smedley attempts to explain why woman's individuality finds no scope in marriage. To quote:

In nine cases out of ten marriage tends to compress and nullify a woman's individuality, making her an efficient pillow or "help" for the husband, but an astoundingly uninteresting, dwarfed and narrow minded specimen of humanity, taken out of her home and viewed as a mere human person. I fail to see how the children of such women can draw mental or physical acceptance of the duties which the new relation involves. In a recent discussion in the Atlantic Monthly a writer takes the ground that marriages go to pieces because of innate selfishness. Whereas a man's egotism, says this writer, finds a healthy outlet in work, woman has no imperative duties, and her energies turn back upon her and devour her.

At the time of the old man's death both were engaged to be married to others. Had old Peter studied for years he could not have wrought out a worse plan than he put in practice. The money was left to this pair on condition that they marry. If they did not marry, it was to be divided up among the others; if they did, the one who survived the other took all.

At first both nephew and niece declared that they would not accept the legacy under the terms. They flouted the idea, and they talked of going to law. After a bit they took a different view of the case. The spirit of avarice predominated in both, and in their selfishness they concluded to obey the provision. It was stipulated that they must live together for at least five years unless death intervened and the legacy was to be paid in five annual installments. Their engagements to others were broken, and they were married. They became man and wife, but lived together as two strangers. The feeling for each other was one of bitterest hatred.

One day three months after marriage they went riding together in a boat on a mill pond. The husband hoped that some accident would happen and the wife be drowned. While he was planning to "accidentally" lose an oar and be swept over the dam she produced a pistol and threatened to shoot him if anything went wrong. A month later he got word that she had asked for poison at the drug store, and he charged her with an intention of killing him and thereafter was suspicious of his food. It was shown after his death that he bought a live rattlesnake and let it loose in the orchard. It was shown that she removed a ladder and pulled him off and pull 'em off, but dang me if I ever saw 'em burnt off afore now.

American Husbands For American Girls.

By Mrs. HETTY GREEN, Financier.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF HONEST YOUNG WORKINGMEN IN THE UNITED STATES GOOD ENOUGH TO BE ANY GIRL'S HUSBAND. THE GIRLS WHO GO TO EUROPE TO GET THEIR HUSBANDS DESERVE WHAT THEY GET—AND MORE. IF MY SON MARRIED A FOREIGN WOMAN BECAUSE THE UNION WOULD BRING HIM A TITLE I WOULD DISOWN HIM.

I recently gave my son $5,000 with which to buy a new automobile as a birthday gift, but I stipulated that it should be OF AMERICAN MAKE. That's how truly American I am, and I say this without egotism.

The mother who will pay $5,000,000 for a title for her daughter SHOULD NOT EXPECT TO GET A SON-IN-LAW OF ANY ACCOUNT for the same sum. Further than this, the woman who will pay $5,000,000 for the son-in-law should have a guardian appointed to care for her.

Nephew and Niece.

[Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.]

Old Peter Rhinehart, bachelor, was a very rich man and a very queer man. He had two brothers and a sister and three or four nephews and nieces, but for the last thirty years of his life not one of them was permitted to step foot across his threshold. When he reached the age of seventy and his health had begun to fail all his relatives and friends besought him to change his way of living. There was fear that he would die alone and unattended. The old man refused to make any change whatever. What was feared came to pass within a year. After the old man had not been seen for two days the house was broken into, and he was found dead.

Old Peter had made his will six months before. He had given to charity, and he had been generous with all his relatives, but the bulk of his fortune had been left to a certain nephew and niece. John Rhinehart was twenty-four years old and a son of the old man's brother. Mary Davis was twenty and a daughter of his sister. He had not seen either one of them a dozen times in his life. Though relatives, they cordially disliked each other. They met but seldom and always quarreled when they did meet. Neither was liked by the other relatives.

At the time of the old man's death both were engaged to be married to others. Had old Peter studied for years he could not have wrought out a worse plan than he put in practice. The money was left to this pair on condition that they marry. If they did not marry, it was to be paid in five annual installments. Their engagements to others were broken, and they were married. WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood, they work night and day. When healthy they remove about 50 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part or the impure matter is felt in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, head-ache, nervousness, hot dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, disease in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right, you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Harrison Levi, 731 N. Sexton Street, Rushville, Ind., says

"Doan's Kidney Pills is the best remedy I ever had for the kidneys and I have tried many remedies. They strengthened my back and banished the pain. Mrs. Levi has used them with satisfaction. She met with an accident which affected her kidneys. They pained her considerably and she could hardly move without sharp, shooting twinges darting through her. I got Doan's Kidney Pills for her at F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store, knowing that they would be of benefit as they had helped me. In a short time she regained her strength and was soon free from pain."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milbank Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NO GOOGOO EYES FOR HER.

Girl Wants to Be Somebody's Stenographer, Not Sweetheart.

Miss Julia C. Dunkirk of Indianapolis inserted this advertisement in a Chicago newspaper and got a hundred replies the other day, says a Chicago special dispatch to the New York World:

"I want to be somebody's stenographer or bookkeeper; not his sweetheart. I have been in Chicago three days answering want ads., and I've had more chances to be 'somebody's darling' than I ever knew existed. If there is a man in Chicago who needs help and would rather have a girl attending to business than making goo-goo eyes, I should like to hear from him. I already have a sweetheart of my own."

Asked about her search for work the girl, who is pretty, said:

"I don't believe so much in chivalry any more. In one office a baldheaded man, who really looked nice, asked me to be seated.

"My people are not in the city. I am alone."

"How interesting" he said. "I am very much alone myself. My wife doesn't care to go out, doesn't care for theaters or late suppers, and I have a lot of time at my disposal."

"But I'm a stenographer," I ventured.

"Spirited," he said. "I like it. You have a pretty hand." And he reached out to take it.

"I escaped and tried the next one. Really, I suppose it was foolish of me to be angry with this man. He was so insignificant. He leered and lisped. I tried again—but what's the use? I hope I will get a place with some man who is too busy to care about lobsters and theaters."

UNCLE REMUS AS PRESIDENT.

Would Have Two Brass Bands and Soldiers Going All the Time.

"If I were president, I'd have a brass band in front of the White House and a brass band in the rear, playing all the time, and I would have a regiment of soldiers out in the yard on dress parade. It's a big job, being president," said Joel Chandler Harris (Uncle Remus) the other day when he reached Atlanta from Washington, where he had been to dine with President Roosevelt, says an Atlanta special dispatch to the New York Sun.

Uncle Remus made the statement at Sean Bean farm, as he calls his Atlanta home, just after he had taken a big chew of plug tobacco. Then he continued:

"The president is a mighty fine talker, and he gave us a sure enough welcome. I'm glad I went, and I shall always recollect the trip with pleasure. He's got a mighty fine family too. The president said when I went in that he was glad to see me. I said, 'Yes, sir, Mr. Roosevelt, but I'm a mighty skeeter-man.' And I certainly was."

That was all Uncle Remus was able to say. He was fagged out. The weather was bad in Washington, the traveling was rough, and he sat up at the White House till midnight. It was the first time in years he had missed going to bed at 10 o'clock.

GOD AND THE REPUBLIC.

Phrase Favored For Coins by Opponents of "In God We Trust."

At a meeting of the Young Men's chapter of the Lewis Avenue Congregational church in New York the other evening a petition was drawn up to be presented to the United States government requesting that some phrase expressive of the nation's recognition of God be placed upon its coins, says the New York Times. The resolution said:

"We second the objection of Mr. Roosevelt relative to the continued use of the phrase 'In God We Trust' on our nation's coinage. The phrase is one which easily lends itself to jocularity. At the same time we deprecate the removal of all recognition of God from the coinage. Some such phrase as 'God and the Republic' on the coin of the realm would satisfy the religious sentiment which is present in the American people without violating the keenest sense of humor. Such a phrase would inject into the nation's life an element of the sacred which President Lincoln and Secretary Chase believed to be needed in their day and is portentously needed in ours."

Maine Fish Planter.

A novelty of some interest has been invented by Superintendent Floyd of the Seabago lake hatchery in Maine which has proved itself extremely practical and economical in the cost of transporting the two-year-old salmon from the hatchery to points about Seabago lake, says the Kennebec Journal. It has been the custom at the hatchery to keep as many salmon as possible until two years old in order that they may be able to protect themselves from cusk and other large fish. The ordinary fish cars were too small, holding but a few each, and it was expensive to thus transport them. Superintendent Floyd has constructed a big fish car after the style of the old Rangeley fish cars to be dragged after the launch. It is fifteen feet long, four feet wide and three and a half feet deep, water tight on front and bottom, with rear end gate. Plank wings 4 by 9 inches balance the car, which is of sufficient buoyancy to support two men. From this car 22,000 salmon were distributed one day recently, which was formerly a busy week's work.

AIRSHIP FOR THE ARMY

Government to Spend $25,000
For Dirigible Balloon.

WILL BE USED FOR SCOUTING

American and Foreign Experts Will Be Asked to Submit Bids on One.
Artillery Experts Engaged on Plans to Destroy Scout Balloons of Foes.

Acting Secretary of War Oliver has approved the action of the army ordnance board in allotting the signal corps $25,000 to be used in getting a dirigible balloon for scouting purposes, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York Times. The last efforts of the war department to conquer the air were made under the tutelage of Professor Langley, who thought he had worked out this problem of flight by means of the aeroplane, but in the final test five years ago his contrivance came to grief in the tawny waters of the Potomac. The experiments made at that time cost more than $60,000, and for them the government has nothing to show today but a pretty little engine of aluminium, which it is asserted can develop ten horse power and weighs but 300 pounds.

The science of aeronavigation has been almost wholly developed since the death of Professor Langley, and now it will be purely a business matter for the government to advertise for bids and get its wants in the shape of a skyship. General Allen, chief of the signal corps, has sent to all the leading workers in aeronautics in the United States and abroad a tentative invitation with specifications for such a dirigible balloon as the army needs. It is not expected that with the amount allotted by the ordnance board a satisfactory balloon can be had, but a beginning can be made, and as experience points the way a larger and more complete balloon can be procured.

The present specifications call for a two man balloon capable of carrying gasoline enough for a three hours' flight. The plan is for one man to devote his attention entirely to the management of the balloon, while the other is left free to reconnoiter, make photographs or draw topographical maps. The idea is to use coal gas, for reasons of economy, and the minimum speed required is eighteen miles an hour in still air and from thirty to thirty-five miles with the wind. The balloon must make a 100 mile trip successfully fifty miles out and fifty back. The price to be paid will doubtless be based on the speed attained, the successful contractor receiving a bonus for every mile over the maximum set by the department's specifications or losing pro rata for every mile under the average speed called for.

There are several experts in the United States who have been at work in co-operation with the army students of aeronautics who think that the requirements laid down by General Allen can be met successfully here.

It is intended to conduct balloon drills after the dirigible is bought and gradually work out many problems that now confront aeronauts. Ultimately it is hoped a dirigible will be built by the government with the combined skill and ingenuity of all the expert army officers turned on the job.

It goes without saying nowadays that balloons are to be recognized equipment of armies hereafter. Already our artillery experts are at work on ordnance to combat balloon reconnaissance.

High angle firing is being practiced with howitzers and special shrapnel charges are being tried. It has been found that it takes different marksmanship to hit a balloon target high up in the air from what is required at a distance on the surface of the earth.

The trajectory is much flatter, and the powder charges must be greater to carry distances that otherwise in ordinary fire take a low charge.

The type of balloon aimed at by the signal officers is not such as private individuals have brought into prominence, but rather those that have been developed by the French and British military experts. These have been successful beyond all doubt, although the British war balloon was wrecked recently and is being rebuilt.

We second the objection of Mr. Roosevelt relative to the continued use of the phrase 'In God We Trust' on our nation's coinage. The phrase is one which easily lends itself to jocularity.

At the same time we deprecate the removal of all recognition of God from the coinage. Some such phrase as 'God and the Republic' on the coin of the realm would satisfy the religious sentiment which is present in the American people without violating the keenest sense of humor. Such a phrase would inject into the nation's life an element of the sacred which President Lincoln and Secretary Chase believed to be needed in their day and is portentously needed in ours."

Improved Jim Crow Car.

When the news of statehood in Oklahoma was learned on a Rock Island passenger train southbound from Enid, Okla., the other morning, the brakeman, named Cowan, announced to about twenty negroes in the smoking car:

"The stuff's off, and you'll have to move to the front end of the car. I'm from Fort Worth, Tex., and you know what that means."

Then the brakeman drew a chalk line across the car, marking a Jim Crow apartment, says a Guthrie (Okla.) correspondent of the Kansas City Star. The negroes offered no resistance and remained where the brakeman told them to sit.

Work of a Steam Plow.

The first steam plow in Saline county, Kan., has recently been sold to Will Johnson, who lives four miles west of Salina, says the Kansas City Journal.

The plow has twelve disks, which can be set so as to cut twelve furrows.

When running two and one-half miles an hour it will plow thirty acres in ten hours. It was started in a 100 acre field at 3 o'clock on a Wednesday afternoon, and Mr. Johnson finished the field the next Friday evening. He had two crews on and kept the plow running all night. Mr. Johnson said he would never bother with a common plow again. The plow turns the ground as well as a walking or sulky plow.

DR. HILL AS A DIPLOMAT.

How the New Ambassador to Germany Obliged a Reporter.

When Dr. David Jayne Hill, who will succeed Charlemagne Tower as American ambassador to Berlin, was assistant secretary of state he was known as the smoothest born diplomat in Washington, says the New York World. He was the pink of courtesy and never refused a request to anybody, but his way of granting one was sometimes bewildering to the recipient. For instance, once a young reporter was sent to see him at his house late at night about an unexpected development in a diplomatic matter. After a good deal of doorbell ringing a window was opened, and the head of Dr. Hill emerged. The reporter apologized for breaking the diplomat's rest and explained what he wanted.

"I shall be very glad to inform you," said Dr. Hill with the utmost graciousness, "but I must necessarily be guarded in my language. At present the diplomatic status of the affair is as follows."

"I'm afraid I don't quite understand that, Mr. Secretary."

"Indeed?" said Dr. Hill, with polite surprise. "Then I will try to make it plainer." And this time he showered about five minutes of Greek on the man below.

"I don't catch that," ventured the gasping reporter.

"Then I will repeat it," said Dr. Hill, with unweary courtesy. And he did in French. The reporter thanked him and went away. Next day the chief of the bureau in which the young man was employed told Dr. Hill that his subordinate had not got much out of him the previous night.

"Indeed?" said Dr. Hill. "And yet I gave him some important information."

IMAGINATION AND TEETH.

An Anaesthetic Failed, but the Patient Felt No Pain.

Writing to a London paper, a medical man tells this story:

"A remarkable incident happened recently at a London dental hospital. A young woman went there to have five teeth extracted. The anaesthetic decided upon by the dental surgeon was ethyl chloride, and this was administered by the usual form of apparatus. An india rubber cap is placed over the patient's mouth and nostrils, and connected with it is a bag into which a sealed capsule of ethyl chloride is introduced. By the turning of a screw from the outside the capsule is broken and the anaesthetic liberated. The screw was turned, the patient went off gradually into the usual condition of insensibility, five teeth were extracted, and the patient awakened without feeling any part of the operation.

"The whole case appeared perfectly normal. Only when the young woman had left the room and the apparatus was being made ready for another patient was it discovered that the capsule of ethyl chloride had by some mischance not been broken at all. The whole condition of insensibility had been brought about by the self hypnosis of the patient. The idea that an anaesthetic was being administered was so strong in her mind that she had passed into insensibility entirely by hypnotic suggestion."

It is intended to conduct balloon drills after the dirigible is bought and gradually work out many problems that now confront aeronauts.

High angle firing is being practiced with howitzers and special shrapnel charges are being tried. It has been found that it takes different marksmanship to hit a balloon target high up in the air from what is required at a distance on the surface of the earth.

The Offer of Chan Tai Yuen.

A Chinese merchant named Chan Tai Yuen of a Chinese company offers to pay the government, says the South China Post, $4,500 a year for the monopoly of collecting all the waste paper in the Kwongchow and Shitshing prefectures for the purpose of manufacturing firecrackers.

A curious mode of catching turtles is practiced in the West Indies. It consists in attaching a ring and a line to the tail of a species of sucker fish, which is then thrown overboard and immediately makes for the first turtle he can spy, to which he attaches himself very firmly by means of a sucking apparatus arranged at the top of his head. The fisherman then hauls both turtle and sucking fish in.
